

HALLOW-ZINE

HALLOWEEN SAFETY TIPS

- Travel in groups + share location
- Find access to Narcan + testing kits
- Keep drinks + treats covered
- Avoid prop weapons
- Have designated drivers
- Bring a jacket + flats
- Don't be afraid to set clear boundaries!

PICK AN album

am i the drama?

GET A Costume ?

Sofia Coppola
Marie Antoinette

the girl with the most cake

WEIRD

i wanna be a weird
girl

Barbie

anybody got a sharpie?

THE CABINET OF
DR. CALIGARI

Gothic
classic

bad bitch im the bar

Donna Summer
(or any disco diva)

HORROR BY women

A GIRL WALKS HOME ALONE AT NIGHT by ANA LILLY AMIRPOUR

This 2014 Iranian indie film follows a hijabi vampire who skateboards through the night, seeking revenge on men who objectify and abuse women. What more could you want.

HER BODY + OTHER PARTIES by CARMEN MARIA MACHADO

This is an anthology of short horror stories by Queer, Cuban author Carmen Maria Machado. You might be familiar with "The Husband Stitch", the short story in which a woman lives her life with a green ribbon tied around her. Every story in this book is phenomenal.

POSSIBLY IN MICHIGAN by CECELIA CONDIT

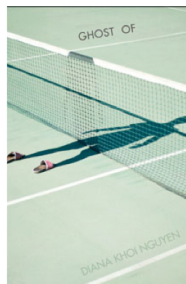

Maybe you've heard an audio for this on Tik Tok, or seen a clip in a YouTube video about 'cursed videos' but this is a perfectly unsettling short film is by feminist video artist Cecelia Condit. The film, released in 1983 is a Lo-Fi materpeiced based on a true story of Condit's friend dating a cannibal serial killer.

GHOST OF by DIANA KHOI NGUYEN

This pick is for those you who like the tragic aspect of haunting. This poetry book is stunning, and explores the haunting of the protagonists deceased brother. This is one of the most beautifully formatted, and beautifully tragic poetry collections I've ever read.

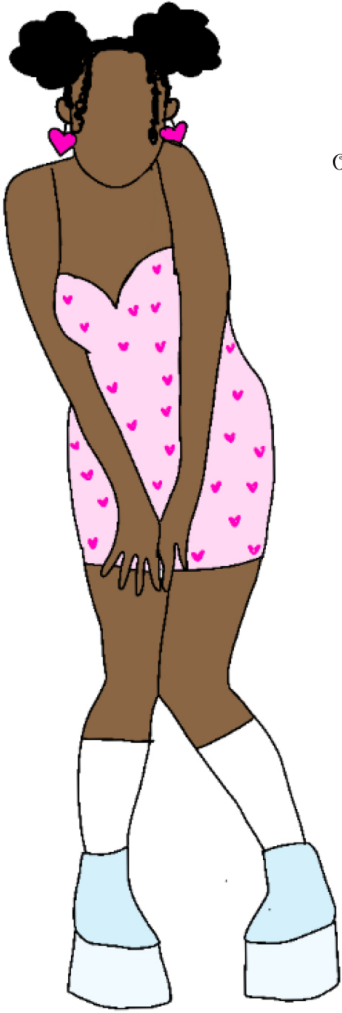

SURE-TUFF by SLOPPY JANE

Sloppy Jane is an 11 piece, Brooklyn Based band. You may have heard of their bassists, Pheobe Briggers. The closing track of their 2015 EP "Sure-Tuff" did have some Tik Tok virality, because of how well it epitomizes the 'unhinged women' trope. The entire EP has a really cool, visceral, dark rock aesthetic that will definitely resonate with fans of groups like Hole, Mannequin Pussy and Daze and the Scouts.

BLACK BABY SPICE

Every black girl knows the pain of planning a Halloween costume. Your group of well-meaning, all-white, friends is planning a group costume. Pixie Hollow Fairies? You can be Iridessa! Spice Girls? Oh, you'd be such a good scary spice! It's the final twist of the knife. You know they mean well, and you want to agree because, sure, out of all of the spice girls you do look the most like Mel B, but deep down, you know you're a total Baby Spice. You love platform shoes and pretty colors. Your hair is always in pigtails or buns. Your bed is covered in Squishmallows and everything you own is baby pink or pale blue. You've never worn an animal print in your life. You can't fight for shit, your defense mechanism is tears, but you're still scary. The worst part is, it's not just you. Mel B wasn't scary either, but some white journalists were afraid of the one black woman in a group, and now that fear of black women is on the tongue of everyone. It's packaged in cheap Halloween costumes that you'll be forced to wear for one night, to appease your white friends and their Instagram posts. Mel B will always be remembered as scary, while her friends get to be remembered by their aesthetics or interests. And now every little girl who looks like her has to be reminded, that with their pigtails and butterfly clips and ruffled socks, they're scary.

Hallow-Zine Playlist

- Halloween: Siouxsie & The Banshees
- PsychoKiller: Talking Heads
- I was a Teenage Werewolf: The cramps
- Phanta: Le Tigre
- Your Dead: Norma Tanega
- Frankenstien: Rina Sawayama
- Boogiemann: childish Gambino
- Bela Lugosi's Dead: Bauhaus
- Deadman's Party: Oingo Boingo
- Darkness Forever: Soccer Mommy

CONTACT INFO

Blog: hotgrrr|shit.com

Instagram: @real_hotgrrr|shit

Email: arimarenrut@gmail.com

Carrier Pigeon: Kevin

(Him)

(you can also find me
around, I'm not a very busy person)